

Do media like the internet and TV have a greater influence on people's lives than political leaders. Do you agree or disagree?

Nowadays, by the high speed revolution of information technology, the effect of media like the internet and Tv are incredibly huge. Political leaders and their political ideologies seem to be less effective than before.

Life these days is much easier than before, war is no longer needed for evasion. People have freedom to do things they do best. The more things they are free to do, the busier they are. People nowadays are so busy that they don't have much free time. Their spare time now is for family and entertainment activities. So the internet or Tv are convenient things for them for relaxing.

Furthermore, the internet and Tv provide people information about the world outside. It's much different from the past, we had to go out to see how the world changed, how the politician lectured before the public, maybe that's why activities of politicians are no longer popular. Besides, with the development of the internet, computers are giving us much more interesting things to attract our attention. The information about other culture, movies, games, entertainment places are what we are interested in now.

On the other hand, there's still a part of the society that consists of old people at middle age and above still care much about politics. No matter big or small, parts of their life connect closely to the difficult period of their country. They have the knowledge wise enough to know how important of the need of an outstanding political leader.

As the result of information technology revolution and a peaceful world we're living on, the internet and Tv are now more and more effective than political leaders, I myself consider it as a good thing.

I am confused about the question. My essay answers for the question : why do media like the internet and Tv have a greater influence on people's lives than political leaders. I think the real question is : how do media.....

So my answer for this topic won't get me any credit right?

Revised

Nowadays, by as a result of the high speed revolution of information technology, the effect of media like the internet and Tv are is incredibly huge. At the same time, pPolitical leaders and their political-ideologies seem to be less effective than before.

Life these days is much easier than before and war is no longer needed for evasion.

People have freedom to do things they do best. The more things they are free to do, the busier they are. People nowadays are so busy that they don't have much free time. Their spare time now is for family and entertainment activities, so the internet or Tv are convenient things for them for relaxing.

Furthermore, the internet and Tv provide people information about the world outside. It's much different from the past, when we had to go out to see how the world changed, and how the politicians lectured before the public. Maybe that's why activities of politicians are no longer popular. Besides, with the development of the internet, computers are giving us much more interesting things to attract our attention. The information about other culture, movies, games, entertainment places are what we are interested in now.

On the other hand, there's still a part of the society that consists of old people at middle age and above that still cares much about politics. No matter how big or small, parts of their life connect closely to the difficult period of their country. They have the enough knowledge wise enough to know how important it is the need for an outstanding political leader.

As the result of information technology revolution and a peaceful world we're living on, the internet and Tv are now more and more effective than political leaders, I myself consider it this as a good thing.

You did a very good job with a difficult question! Your organization was good, your paragraphs made good sense and you had some good vocabulary in there. Note that the question asks if you agree or disagree with the proposition. You agreed with it in your conclusion, which is okay in this case, but be careful when writing in response to "agree or disagree" questions. Usually it's best to state your opinion in the Introduction and then support in the following paragraphs before repeating it in some way in the conclusion.